Unesco yesterday issued a resolution condemning Israel for its policies in occupied areas, drawing a warning that the U.S. that the organization would again have its fifth annual session in Jerusalem at its earlier agreed date if it did not agree to a Unesco mission tour which might be withdrawn.

The resolution, which was adopted by a vote of 19 to 10, with 10 abstentions, was adopted by a vote of 19 to 10, with 10 abstentions.

Fighting in some areas of Lebanon

BEIRUT. — Although calm prevailed in most areas of Lebanon yesterday, reports from both the north and south indicated fighting has continued in areas which the Arab peace-keeping army has yet to enter.

The capital itself was quiet after a night which saw an outbreak of fighting between the Syrian-backed Sa'aka group and another Palestinian faction, the Democratic Front for the Liberation of Palestine.

At least 15 persons were wounded in the rocket and machinegun exchanges between the two groups on Wednesday night and yesterday morning, Palestinian sources said. They said the dispute stemmed from an attempt by the Sa'aka to occupy offices they used to control in the Sabra neighbourhood of Beirut, but which had been taken over by the other faction. Later, Sa'aka said it took over the offices.

A rightist official told the independent newspaper "An Nahar" that the right-wing "Army for the Defense of the South" had captured the leftist village of Kafir Kala, near the border with Israel.

The leftist Lebanese Arab Army confirmed that rightist forces had attacked and entered Kala. It also charged that the rightists had Israeli artillery support and that the attackers included both rightist and Israeli infantry companies.

In the north, "An Nahar" said, heavy fighting has been going on since sporadic clashes since Sunday. There were no casualty figures available.

The Syrian-dominated Arab peace-keeping force has yet to enter the north in the area of Tripoli or push south to Sidon from its positions just south of Beirut.

As in each previous step of the security plan, President Elias Sarkis and his military commanders are moving slowly, carefully consolidating their grip on Beirut before fanning out and assuming complete control of the country. (UPI)

28th Toy Fund drive starts today

HELEN BOSSI
JERUSALEM POST

The 28th drive begins today, under down memory lane to put those who have since the Fund started — or those who have only lately learned about it — into the picture.

Twenty-eight years ago, when the State of Israel was just about seven months old, a major wave of aliya began. This found the country's first citizens — just over 600,000 — still treating the war of independence as a severe rationing. The idea of a

Warm weather to continue

BEIRUT. — It is going to be unusually warm this weekend. The dry fair weather will continue with temperatures three to four degrees (centigrade) above the normal for this time of the year: 24-26 degrees in the coastal plain; 20 in the northern valleys and only slightly cooler in the Judean mountains. All are noontime maximums.

It will be hot for at least three to four more days as a result of stable weather conditions over Central Europe.

Winter should begin here in November. In terms of the number of rainy days Israel has had so far, November is already an exception. "Dry" Novembers occur about twice every 15 years.

Dutch war criminal flees before arrest

AMSTERDAM. — Dutch multi-millionaire war criminal Pieter Menten took off from his home in Blaricum village near here Sunday night after he received a tip that police had planned to arrest him on Monday morning, it is believed here.

Neighbours of the Mentens said they saw Pieter and his wife leave in a car laden with valises Sunday night. The couple's disappearance had caused several members of Parliament to question the Justice Minister why Menten's passport had not been impounded, and the story continues to be front-page news in Holland.

According to Nazi-hunter Simon Wiesenthal, Menten may have been involved in the murder of 39 professors of the University of Lvov in 1941. Menten was then an interpreter for the "Sonderkommando," which killed the professors. He received the home of one of them — art historian Ostrowski — which contained a valuable art collection.

The Dutch police have asked Interpol to assist in locating the Dutch war criminal.

Hans Knoep, editor of the weekly "Accent" who has played a major role in exposing Menten's past during the past few months, has announced he will publish full details of the evidence he has obtained against Menten in the forthcoming issue of his magazine.

Menten, who was jailed for eight months in Holland in 1949 for collaborating with the Germans, has not been charged with any offence but is wanted for questioning. The order for his detention was made as a result of evidence Dutch investigators obtained from Israeli witnesses.

Menten has denied allegations by several Dutch organizations that part of his art collection was looted from Jewish homes in Poland during the Nazi occupation. (JTA)

Schindler after meeting Ceausescu At least 10,000 Rumanian Jews want to emigrate

By JUDY SIEGEL
Jerusalem Post Reporter

KIBBUTZ YAHIEL IN THE ARAVA. — At least 10,000 Rumanian Jews — but not more than 25,000 — are eager to emigrate to Israel, Rabbi Alexander Schindler, chairman of the Conference of Presidents of Major American Jewish Organizations, told The Jerusalem Post yesterday.

Rabbi Schindler was here to participate in the opening of the first kibbutz of the Reform Judaism movement. He is also president of the Union of American Hebrew Congregations.

Rabbi Schindler, who arrived in Israel on Wednesday following a meeting with Rumanian President Nicolae Ceausescu earlier in the week, said he was "dismayed" by the current rate of Jewish emigration from that country. "When I testified before the U.S. Congress when they were discussing the granting of most favoured nation status for Rumania, I urged that the status be conditional on free emigration," he said.

"Ceausescu said that they need people for the building of their country, but that they will never prevent people who really want to leave from emigrating," recalled Rabbi Schindler. "But the current figure of emigrants is not glorious," maintained the rabbi.

The two met for about three hours and discussed, in addition to emigration, the political situation in the U.S., the role of Rumania in the UN, and the possibilities of peace in the Middle East.

The "dovish" rabbi, who has been rather vocal in criticizing Israel Government policy on some issues, denied strongly a report that he came here to "smooth things over" with the Government. "I came here to attend the dedication of this kibbutz (see page 2), to tell Israeli leaders what I know about the U.S. post-election period, and to inform them about my visit in Rumania," he said.

Rabbi Schindler backed up a statement by Prime Minister Rabin on Wednesday night in which the Premier denied that his Government had blocked a visit by American Jewish leaders with Egyptian President Anwar Sadat in Cairo, to that effect by American Chancellor Bruno Kreisky, charging that it was Sadat himself who reneged on the invitation he had extended.

The rabbi told The Post that "there had been some talk about four or five months ago about the possibility of such a visit, but it never reached a substantive stage. Suggestions came from secondary and tertiary sources and were extremely vague to be taken as a serious invitation."

Rabbi Schindler continued that "nevertheless, throughout these conversations, Mr. Rabin was most encouraging, eager to pursue any and every avenue which could conceivably advance the cause of peace. When his reactions were reported to the other side, the conditions suddenly changed and were

Herzog spurns UN Palestine c'tee report

UNITED NATIONS. — Israel yesterday condemned the committee on the exercise of the inalienable rights of the Palestinian people and rejected out of hand its recommendations that "imply the stage-by-stage truncation of the Jewish state until it totally disappears."

Addressing the General Assembly yesterday, Israel Ambassador Chaim Herzog declared "in the name of the government and people of Israel and of the Jewish people I reject out of hand the recommendations contained in the report of the Palestine committee."

He said that "Israel condemns the Committee of Twenty for being one-sided, biased, intellectually dishonest and expedient for allowing itself to become a tool in the hands of the Palestine Liberation Organization and to adopt as its recommendations the political objectives of that organization."

The report of the 20-member committee recommends the establishment of a Palestinian state under PLO aegis and calls for Israel's withdrawal from all Arab territories by June 1977. It also recommends that Arab refugees be allowed to return to their homes in Palestine.

Addressing himself to that aspect of the report, Herzog said that other refugee problems, larger in scope, have been solved through resettlement and rehabilitation of refugees with the help of suitable financial arrangements. (JTA)

He contended that none of these refugee problems has been resolved by attempting to repatriate the refugees to the countries and homes from which they fled, as the recommendations of the Palestine committee advocates.

He charged that the Arab states are unwilling to solve the refugee problem but noted that Israel has resettled about 800,000 Jewish refugees who were driven out of Arab countries. "Let me make it quite clear," Herzog said, "that we will not at any stage consider valid any discussion of the refugee problem in the Middle East if half of that problem, the Jewish refugee problem, is ignored."

Referring to the committee's recommendation of the establishment of an "independent Palestinian entity" to be followed by "further arrangements for the full implementation of the inalienable rights of the Palestinian people," Herzog declared: "The committee's recommendations for Israel withdrawal do not stop at the 1967 line but imply the stage-by-stage truncation of the Jewish state until it totally disappears." He noted that not one Arab country has ever declared that the 1967 line would be recognized by it as the final peace frontier with Israel. (JTA)

Wolf Blitzer adds from Washington: Israel officials here and their American supporters are expressing concern over the most recent PLO "peace offensive," which, they feel, is merely designed to enlist international support — especially from the U.S. — for the establishment of a Palestinian state on the West Bank and Gaza Strip.

The Israeli supporters were primarily worried that some people may be misled by recent comments by PLO spokesmen indicating that the terrorist organization might now be prepared to settle for such a new state and eventually even recognize Israel's existence. Israel diplomats charge that these "hints" by the PLO are directed only at the international community. They are not voiced within the Arab world.

'K's charms may influence Carter'

Jerusalem Post Correspondent

WASHINGTON. — Despite the addition of President Sadat and New York Jewish congressman Lester Wolff to Sen. Abraham Ribicoff's proposal that President-elect Jimmy Carter appoint Dr. Henry Kissinger as a special Middle East envoy to negotiate an overall settlement, it remains unlikely that Carter will accept the idea.

But one can never tell, one informed observer here commented yesterday. "Henry's charms may influence Carter on Saturday. He (Kissinger) can be quite persuasive." (Kissinger flies to Plains, Georgia tomorrow for talks with Carter.)

Many observers here believe that some Israeli leaders may have put Ribicoff up to the idea of proposing that Kissinger stay on. Ribicoff, who made the suggestion in Israel, insists that the only person he had spoken with prior to making the statement was his wife.

Israeli officials here in Washington, who used to defend Kissinger, are now taking an increasingly more critical attitude towards him, especially in light of Kissinger's decision last week to have the U.S. participate in the Egyptian-sponsored condemnation of Israel at the Security Council.

In Cairo, Wolff, leading a seven-member delegation of the U.S. House of Representatives, told a press conference after meeting President Sadat that the Egyptian leader urged a renewal of American shuttle diplomacy.

"The U.S. is the only great power that is trusted by both sides of the Arab-Israeli conflict," he added.

STOCKHOLM. — More than 40 Soviet soldiers died on October 25 in an underground nuclear explosion at the Soviet sea-base of Paldiski in northwest Estonia, a Swedish journalist reported yesterday.

Ashdod to meet Ramle in cricket finals tomorrow

Jerusalem Post Sports Reporter

TEL AVIV. — Ashdod 'A' will meet Ramle in Ashdod tomorrow in the Israel Cricket Association's second annual Ben Abraham memorial match. The 35-over game — with over of eight goals — starts at 9.30 a.m.

Ashdod and Ramle were the losing semi-finalists in the ICA's recent annual league cup competition, and the match will thus decide third place in the event. (It was won by Tel Aviv, which beat Patah Tikva in the final.)

Ben Abraham, who died three years ago aged 71, was a founder of organized cricket in Israel in the early 1950s, following a distinguished career in the game in his native India. At one time he led a Beersheba XI which comprised no less than seven of his sons, plus three others. After his playing days were over, he was one of the ICA's leading administrators and umpires.

'Anonymous oranges'

Jerusalem Post Reporter

HAIFA. — "Anonymous oranges" in considerable quantities are being shipped from the port to unidentified destinations. The oranges come in cartons carrying only a picture of an orange and the serial numbers of the packing houses, batches, and type of fruit, and the tissue wrappers on the individual oranges are completely blank. The regular exports carry the "Jaffa" mark, as well as the "Produce of Israel" stamp on both cartons and wrappers.

The Jerusalem Post has learned that the anonymous oranges, which are being shipped in batches of tens of thousands of cases each, are going to countries that do not have diplomatic relations with Israel, but want our oranges, and are willing to pay for them. Their one common aspect is that the oranges are anonymous, and not identified as coming from Israel.

Soviet representatives to WJC meet 'will be KGB lackeys'

By SARAH HONIG

Jerusalem Post Reporter

TEL AVIV. — Former aliyah activists here yesterday expressed apprehension at plans by Dr. Nahum Goldmann to meet with "representatives of the Moscow Jewish community" to discuss the possibility of relations between the World Jewish Congress and Soviet Jews.

Chief cause for the unease about the meeting with the Moscow Jews, which will probably take place in Paris in several weeks, is the identity of those who will be "representing" Soviet Jewry. Activists here feel that the representatives will inevitably be KGB lackeys.

Prominent former activist Victor Polesky told The Jerusalem Post yesterday that it would be a big mistake to allow "officially-approved" Jews to appear as representatives of Soviet Jews. "If the government-appointed officials in the USSR's synagogues are any example of 'official' Jews, it is safe to say that they clearly do not represent the Jewish population in the Soviet Union. These people are purely tools of the regime who work in close cooperation with the KGB. They themselves cannot say what they think or want, and all their words and actions are under constant supervision."

Polesky feels that aliyah activists still struggling to leave the USSR "will be greatly disturbed, when they hear who is to speak on their behalf."

The head of the former Prisoners of Zion organization, Yeheskel Polarevich, told The Post that "the WJC move fits well with Soviet designs to con the world into believing that Soviet Jews have cultural freedom and may establish contacts with their brothers outside the Iron Curtain. If Jews are officially allowed to set up relations, this must be a top-echelon official Soviet decision."

"The representatives of Soviet Jews will certainly not be refused visas. Anyone whom the authorities consider suitable to be a representative, has the official seal of approval. The representatives will be without doubt be KGB agents, as are rabbis and congregation chairmen in the USSR. For all we know, we may even see Moscow's Rabbi Fishman or Moshe Tandelnik, appointed chairman of the Moscow synagogue congregation, representing Soviet Jews in Paris," Polarevich said.

Flahman, though appointed to a rabbi's position by the authorities, was never ordained a rabbi and Tandelnik, a former KGB colonel, was reported to have destroyed most of the Moscow synagogue's priceless archives soon after he was appointed to his post in 1975.

The deputy chairman of the Soviet Immigrants Association, David Yafit, was less outspoken and even saw some positive aspects to the contacts. "The idea is a basically good one. Regardless of who the representatives will be, this is certainly a breakthrough. Once we have penetrated, there will always be the possibility of advancing and changing the nature of the contacts with Soviet Jews. If WJC representatives will be allowed to visit Jewish communities in the USSR, they will certainly get to meet different types of Jews and not just those officially approved," he declared.

Nevertheless, Yafit cautioned that "we must go into this with no illusions. Those who will ostensibly represent Soviet Jews will be emissaries of the Soviet authorities. The WJC must know with whom it will be dealing. Those who will be appointed to represent the USSR's Jews will tell us all the usual fairy tales about Jewish life in Russia, will condemn Israel and Zionism, and will maintain that only in the Soviet Union are Jews free. WJC representatives from the free world must not adopt a defensive stand, and must never treat these people as if they were really representatives."

Don't pay full tuition fee, Technion students union rules

Jerusalem Post Reporter

HAIFA. — The Technion Students' Union has ordered students not to pay the IL4,933 tuition fees determined by the Education Ministry. The union told the students to pay only the IL3,800 which it considers "proper," based on the Agranat Commission tuition rates, augmented by COL payments. The union had been holding out for the lower scale, but its demand had been rejected.

A union spokesman told The Jerusalem Post that the lower payment would "hide either through pay slips to be issued by the union, or by the non-payment of 'one' of the regular quarterly payments of the tuition fees."

Meanwhile, the union would hold another referendum to decide "clearly and unequivocally" whether the students are willing to strike to have their view of the fees accepted. The last referendum, on the strength of which they stopped their strike at the beginning of the school year, was inconclusive because the questions had been formulated in an ambiguous manner.

The Technion spokesman refrained from commenting on the student threat to pay a reduced tuition fee, but The Post learned that in order to sit for the end-of-year examinations, the students will have to present receipts for the full IL4,933.

Prisoner of Zion Mark Lutzker 'given exit visa'

NEW YORK. — Mark Lutzker, a former prisoner of Zion who recently completed a two-year sentence on charges of draft evasion, has been granted an exit visa to join his fiancée in Israel, the Greater New York Conference on Soviet Jewry announced yesterday. Lutzker was a key organizer of the September protest by Kiev Jews over the Soviet failure to memorialize more than 100,000 Jews slain by the Nazis at Babi Yar.

Following his initial application to leave for Israel, Lutzker was expelled from the mathematics department of Voronezh university. He subsequently lost his student status and tuition fee, but The Post learned that in order to sit for the end-of-year examinations, the students will have to present receipts for the full IL4,933.

After Brezhnev visit Yugoslavs still wary of Soviet pledges

BELGRADE. — Yugoslavia has served notice it will not relax its defenses despite a public assurance from Soviet leader Leonid Brezhnev that the Soviet Union has no aggressive intentions.

Shortly after Brezhnev left here Wednesday at the end of a three-day visit, the Yugoslav news agency Tanjug previewed extracts of an official report which said Yugoslavia's armed forces were capable of fighting against "any aggression, whether by land, sea or air."

Brezhnev, in a dinner speech here on Monday, ridiculed any suggestion that the Soviet Union was "a terrible bloodthirsty wolf" which might one day devour the Yugoslav "Red Riding Hood."

He and President Josip Tito signed a communiqué recognizing Yugoslavia's "unfettered right to develop its own unorthodox form of Communism."

The communiqué pledged Soviet respect for Yugoslav independence and the freedom of Yugoslavia's communist way of life to develop separately from that of Russia.

It was the most far-reaching document on the issue of differences between the two countries' Communism thus far and appeared a victory for Tito.

But the Tanjug extracts indicated the Yugoslav leaders are taking no chances.

Aide to UK Tory leader:

'Israel should stand firm on fundamental rights'

By MARK SEGAL

Jerusalem Post Correspondent
LONDON. — Patrick Cosgrave, aide to Conservative leader Margaret Thatcher and an influential columnist, has criticized Israel for being "not totally clear-headed about the basis of its struggle with the Arabs."

Cosgrave, who is a columnist for the "Daily Telegraph" and the "Spectator" weekly magazine, told a forum of the British Zionist Federation that the Israel Government seemed "willing to hesitate over its diplomatic tactics, and play the never-never game of modern international relations."

Cosgrave, who has written books on diplomatic history, urged Israel not to yield its fundamental rights in the face of Western weakness and duplicity. The young Conservative intellectual advised Israel to stand firm on its basic interests and weather temporary international trends.

The exit of Kissinger would mean "the re-establishment of Israel as the strategic lynch-pin of the West," he said.

The speaker questioned the underlying assumptions of the Allon Plan, recently expounded by the Foreign Minister in "Foreign Affairs." He feared that Allon "had blurred the issue" regarding the vital prerequisite of an Arab commitment to recognize Israel for the negotiating process. As to the plan's details, he wondered what would happen if Arabs in the demilitarized zones proposed by Allon prevented free access of Jews to the holy places.

Cosgrave doubted that the step-by-step diplomacy "apparently favoured by Premier Rabin" and the "somewhat cloudy total settlement" of the Likud, would really serve Israel's interests best.

'Poles tortured food-rioters'

WARSAW. — Polish workers who protested against government-planned food price increases last June were tortured during their arrest, the Committee for the Defence of the Workers said yesterday.

The committee said in a letter to parliament here that the detained workers were forced by police into a so-called "health track" — a double row of policemen who beat them up with batons. Noting "mounting fear that the methods of Stalinism may return to Poland," the letter said: "A total of 96 cases checked in Radom revealed 93 tortures and more than half of the 94 demonstrators arrested in the Ursus plant were also beaten up," the committee said.

(The demonstrators at Radom had set a Communist Party headquarters on fire during riots over food-price rises, while Ursus workers derailed a locomotive during the same disturbances last June.) (UPI)

E. Germany bans return of singer

BERLIN. — East Germany has branded its popular protest singer and composer Wolf Biermann a false Communist "who was completely black inside but donned a red cap."

The Communist state on Tuesday unleashed a wave of protest in West Germany by banning the singer from returning to the East. He had settled in East Germany from Hamburg in 1958.

Biermann, on his first two-week tour of West Germany in 12 years, said he found the expulsion "unacceptable."

Despite protesting against the East German regime, Biermann calls himself a Socialist in his songs and advocates that East Germans remain in the country to improve it rather than flee to the West. (UPI)

China explodes 'largest ever' hydrogen bomb

HONGKONG. — China on Wednesday exploded the most powerful nuclear device her scientists have developed in a dozen years of testing, and said it "raised the level of China's nuclear weapons to a new height."

American monitors said the blast, the fourth exploded by China this year and the 21st since 1965, was the most powerful test in October 1964, was of a hydrogen bomb and in the four-megaton range.

It was conducted in the atmosphere and is likely to spread heavy nuclear fallout over Japan and the U.S. within the next few days, the American scientists said.

The test was announced in a communiqué issued yesterday morning by the official "New China News Agency" accompanied by a commentary in the "People's Daily," the official newspaper of the Chinese Communist Party. The commentary said there was "no doubt" China would make "even greater achievements."

The test was "a heavy blow to the two superpowers, the Soviet Union and the U.S., which are pursuing hegemonism and attempting to practise nuclear monopoly and nuclear blackmail," the commentary said. The Chinese reiterated that their nuclear testing was conducted "entirely for the purpose of defence" and that "The Chinese government declares once again that at no time, and under no circumstances will China be the first to use nuclear weapons." ## BRITAIN PROPOSES DATE TO END RHODESIA TALKS

GENEVA. — Britain proposed yesterday to end the Rhodesia peace conference by December 30 at the latest, in a move to meet demands by hardline black nationalists and get concrete talks going on the establishment of a pre-independence interim government.

British conference chairman Ivor Richard suggested the deadline to "Patriotic Front" leaders Robert Mugabe and Joshua Nkomo who for three weeks have held up discussion of concrete issues by insisting on a binding independence date.

They also demanded the fixing of a date for the talks and so that their proposed independence date of December 1, 1977, "cannot be sabotaged." Proposal to end the talks by December 30 was designed to meet Mugabe and Nkomo halfway. He earlier said that Britain could not commit itself to say "immutable" date for majority rule independence.

Conference officials have made no secret of the fact that Nkomo, the moderate partner in the Patriotic Front, wants to start talks on the structure of the interim government but has held back for fear of alienating Mugabe, who represents the guerrilla movement. (UPI)

Mass bans on S. African trade union leaders

JOHANNESBURG. — Twelve trade unionists, virtually the entire leadership of South Africa's black trade union movement, have been served with banning orders isolating them from society, security police said here yesterday.

A banning order restricts a person's movements and forbids him or her from attending any meeting. Banned people may not be quoted by newspapers.

Of seven unionists banned in Durban, six were whites who had been active in organizing the African trade union movement there, a security police spokesman said. In Johannesburg, orders were served on the white organizer and black secretary of the local branch of the Metal and Allied Workers' Union, a black organization.

It was also confirmed that banning orders were served earlier in the week on three white leaders of the Urban Training Project, a body representing eight local African groups.

A further person banned yesterday was Jenny Curtis, 26, activist since 1973 at the South African Institute of Race Relations. Her brother, Neville Curtis, also a banned person, fled to Australia in 1974.

Miss Curtis was detained for more than two months last year following the arrest of South African poet Breyten Breytenbach, who was later sentenced to nine years' imprisonment for seeking to overthrow the white government.

Jeff Wolfson, acting director of the Institute of Race Relations, told reporters: "The Institute expresses its total opposition to the continued arbitrary harassment of a person who is committed to peaceful change in South Africa."

The Institute, a private fact-finding organization, aims to further inter-racial peace and cooperation. In another report, released yesterday, 33 South African hotels have opened their doors to all races this year, following government pledges to remove what it calls unnecessary discrimination. ## Venezuela promises to help 'moderate' oil price demands

ROME. — Venezuelan President Carlos Andres Perez said yesterday that his government feels the price of oil must go up. But he promised Venezuela would try to help moderate oil producers' demands.

Italian sources said Perez, on the second day of an official visit to this country, explained his country's oil policy in a conversation with Italian President Giovanni Leone at the Quirinale palace. The sources said Leone urged Venezuela, a leading member of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries (Opec), to work toward "avoiding or at least limiting an increase in oil prices."

Leone said a sharp price-increase could seriously endanger democracy in the developed countries. "For all democratic countries, a financial imbalance could cause negative political repercussions, a thing the oil-producing countries themselves can hardly desire," he said.

The sources said Perez replied that "Venezuela plays a moderating role in Opec which is matched by Italy's moderating role in the European Economic Community." But he said "it must be remembered that oil is the only instrument Venezuela has in negotiating with the industrialized countries." (UPI)

Man Ray, at 86

PARIS. — American-born Man Ray, a leading figure of the Paris art scene since the 1920s, died yesterday in his studio here, friends reported. He was 86.

Ray, equally at home with painting, photography and sculpture, was one of the founders of both Dadaism and Surrealism, forerunners of today's Pop Art and Op Art.

Ray began his career as an advertising artist in the U.S. He moved to Paris in the 1920s and quickly became known for his inventive, humorous art works that bent reality into unexpected shapes.

Spanish reform bill passage assured

MADRID. — Spain's extreme right-wing in the Cortes (Parliament) yesterday agreed to a minor compromise on a key point of the Government's political reform bill, virtually assuring its passage by the Franco-era parliament.

A spokesman for the Popular Alliance, a block of 180 right-wing deputies who had threatened to withdraw their support from the bill, told the Cortes that the group has reconsidered its stand "in the interest of national concord" and to spare the nation the spectacle of "a Cortes unable to agree on a political reform."

The issue, which had threatened to deadlock the debate, concerned the election system that will be used for the new two-chamber parliament proposed by the new law.

Tension had risen as a growing number of deputies threatened to abstain in the vote expected late last night if the Government persisted in what some deputies called "rail-roading tactics."

The charge arose from government proposals to have only one vote on the entire bill rather than separate votes on proposed amendments.

The Government strategy was apparently designed to prevent its reforms being diluted.

The proposals advanced by Adolfo Suarez's government for a universal direct vote in secret suffrage. The sticking point was that the Government wants the lower and more influential house to be elected by proportional representation.

A new right-wing party, the Popular Alliance, headed by former ministers in the Franco regime, had threatened to mount a large-scale abstention if the Government did not at least accept this demand.

The Popular Alliance maintained that a system of proportional representation could leave Spain in the hands of small parties and a loose coalition. Rightists feared this would open the way to communist participation in the Government.

A parliamentary spokesman for the Popular Alliance said his was now prepared to accept principle of proportional representation — provided "corrective" votes are written into the law to prevent "excessive fragmentation." Government sources said the Government would not object to "small corrections" as long as the principle of proportional representation is upheld. (UPI)

Soviets bar U.S. diplomats from returning to Moscow

MOSCOW. — The Soviet Union has barred a senior American diplomat from returning to his post in Moscow in apparent retaliation for similar action against a Russian official in the U.S., a U.S. Embassy spokesman said yesterday.

The diplomat, Marshal Brement, the number three ranked U.S. official in Moscow is a specialist on Sino-Soviet relations who was on his second assignment to the Soviet capital. He had had his return visa cancelled by the Soviet authorities while holidaying in the U.S.

It was believed to be the first such action against an American diplomat since the two countries established friendly ties under the policy of détente in 1972. Brement held the rank of political counselor and frequently acted as a liaison mission.

The Soviet diplomat whose visa was lifted was identified as Alexander Stepanov, a low-ranking official at the United Nations, Washington, officials said. Stepanov's visa when revoked in August while he was on leave, the U.S. said, was to follow the Soviet action in returning to Moscow a Soviet official who had been advising U.S. officials in the U.S.

The last reported case of such actions in somewhat similar circumstances involved a U.S. Marine Corps officer in 1969 who was asked to leave after a Soviet diplomat at the UN was identified as having carried out espionage activities in the U.S. (Reuters)

Unesco condemns Israel

held following the 1974 general conference in Paris at which Israel was condemned and also barred from Unesco's European regional group.

This time, Israel is almost certain to obtain membership of the regional group.

The PLO delegate, whose organization has observer status at the Nairobi conference, said the outcome of yesterday's vote was "very positive. Only Israel, the U.S. and four others voted against," he said. "This shows the Europeans are not hostile to our aspirations."

The delegate, Ibrahim Soussa, also said the resolution was not prejudging the issue.

Prof. Shlomo Avineri, head of Israel's delegation to the conference from the Arab League, indicated that when Israel expressed its readiness to permit a Unesco mission to tour the occupied areas it had made it clear that any condemnation of Israel prior to such a visit would violate basic principles of fairness — many member states supported view.

"We pointed, however, to the fact that the Arab states are as interested in the mission, as the fate of the areas' residents, they are in achieving a condemnation of Israel," Avineri said. "It is now clear to us that the A states' insistence on injecting elements of condemnation into the resolution constituted a clear-cut act of condemning Israel, over Unesco mission itself."
